BOARD OF REVIEW IS NAMED BY CO. JUDGE

Frank Young of South Dixon and T. F. Kirby of Steward Selected

BUCKLEY IS CHAIRMAN

County Judge John B. Crabtree this morning appointed the members of the Lee county Board of Review for the year 1918, naming Frank Young, Republican, of South Dixon, and T. F. Kirby, democrat, of Steward, as co-members with Jas. Buckley of May township, chairman of the Board of Supervisors and ex-officio chairman of the Board of Review. The new board will soon meet for organization and to plan the work.

The appointments by Judge Crabtree will doubtless arouse favorable comment, as he has selected very able men to assist Chairman Buckley. Mr. Young is one of South Dixon's most successful farmers, and he served as supervisor from that township for a number of years. Mr. Kirby is a prosperous implement dealer of Steward and will prove a competent man on the board.

"NO WHEAT" UNTIL NEXT HARVEST, PLEA OF HERBERT HOOVER

Those Who Can Are Urged to Do Absolutely Without Wheat for Time

PREVENT SUFFERING

Abstain From Wheat Products in Any Form Until Next Harvest

The following important communication from Food Administrator Hoover was read in every pulpit in the land yesterday and is released for all newspapers today. Read it, and act accordingly:

U. S. Food Administration, Washington, D. C., May 26. The confidence of the United States Food Administration that the people of the country would respond enthusiastically and wholeheartedly upon presentation of the facts, to any necessary requests for reduction in consumption of food, has been fully justified. We have demonstrated our ability not only to think together but to act together. This response of the people is the reason for the present appeal. Our work is not yet complete. In spite of the encouraging results of our efforts, in spite of the fact that our exports of foodstuffs are constantly increasing and are approaching the minimum requirements abroad, the need for renewed devotion and effort is pressing. While all the requirements of the Food administration should be constantly observed, there are certain matters which I desire to stress at this time.

PRAIRIEVILLE GARAGE BURNED EARLY TODAY

AUTO, PROPERTY OF C. M. HEFLEY OF DIXON, WAS DESTROYED BY FLAMES.

The Fred Nelson garage at Prairieville was totally destroyed by fire early this morning and a car belonging to Cyrus M. Hefley of Dixon was consumed in the flames, the fire having gained such headway before it was discovered by the people residing in that vicinity that the car could not be rolled out. The origin of the flames, which were discovered about 3:30 o'clock, is a mystery. The old barn in which Mr. Nelson had been conducting his business pending the construction of a concrete building nearby, burned fiercely and the entire contents were destroyed. The loss is estimated at about $800 with insurance of about $500.

NINETY-NINE LEE CO. SELECTMEN GIVEN ROUSING GOD-SPEED AT I. C. DEPOT AS THEY LEFT FOR THE WAR

Lee County made its biggest single contribution to the nation and the war today when she sent 98 men to join the National Army, at Camp Gordon, near Atlanta, Ga., a National Army training camp.

The men left at 9 a. m., over the Illinois Central, on a special train in charge of Conductor Mike Curran of Freeport, a former Dixon man.

The Lee County contingent was in charge of James R. Kelly, an Amboy attorney and a member of the contingent, appointed captain by the Local Board. There were eight coaches, including a dining car, in the train. The coaches are tourist sleepers, and the boys will have a very comfortable trip. Six more coaches were to be picked up at La Salle and 4 at Mattoon, making a special train of 18 cars, which will go straight through to the Georgia camp.

An enormous crowd of relatives and friends were at the depot this morning to see the boys off. They went away with the cheers and smiles of the crowd, although many of the mothers and sweethearts were smiling bravely through their tears.

The following men were the 98 who left today to join the National Army at Camp Gordon, Georgia:

- Timothy F. Keane, Dixon
- James Biggart, Brooklyn
- Carl O. Rosekrans, Wyoming
- Charles E. Walker, Lieut., Alto
- Fred F. Buchanan, Willow Creek
- Walter J. Morrissey, Lieut., Amboy
- 1968 John Bott, Dixon
- 1973 Frank John Andrews, Dixon
- 1978 Neil McLean Hopkins, Wyoming
- 1985 William Thomas Edwards, Dixon
- 1986 Chauncey Alva Lindsey, Amboy
- 1989 Adolph Gustav Schaeffer, Hamilton

PROCLAMATION

Memorial Day means more and more to us every year. We realize, with sorrow, the depleting ranks of our boys who went forth in the Sixties for the preservation of the Union, and also of those in the present war for the freedom and right of nations. Loving hands will guard the graves of our patriot dead in the homeland, while devoted hands will strew with blossoms the new made graves of our soldiers "Over There".

Therefore I urge that the citizens of Dixon specially observe Memorial Day this year. I ask that all business be suspended from 12:30 p. m. to 4 p. m. and that all take part in the ceremonies of the day. Let the flags float at half mast from sunrise until 12 m. and at full mast from 12 o'clock until sunset.

Signed: HENRY SCHMIDT, Mayor.

LEE COUNTRY IS OVER THE TOP IN RED CROSS DRIVE

Twelve Townships Have Reached Their Minimum Quotas of Fund

WORK WILL CONTINUE

Every Town Must Reach its Goal Before Campaign Will Be Stopped

- "OVER THE TOP,"
- ALTO
- AMBOY
- ASHTON
- CHINA
- EAST GROVE
- HAMILTON
- HARMON
- MARION
- NACHUSA
- VIOLA
- WYOMING

With more than half the townships of Lee county over the top in the Red Cross war fund drive, the county was reported to have reached its quota by President W. B. Brinton this morning, the excellent record made by Dixon doing so much to make up the shortages in other towns.

Dixon Total $12,000.

Dixon did herself remarkably well in the drive, the total of the close to 3800 subscriptions being nearly $12,000—against a minimum quota of $9,552. Because of the great number of subscriptions the committee will require some time to completely check the list to determine who failed to help the movement; therefore the list of slackers, which it was announced would be published today, will be withheld a few days.

Work to Continue.

However the fact that the county is not going to stop the drive in the townships which are still behind, for it is desired that the fine record made in the Third Liberty Loan campaign, in which every township in the county got in the honor list, be equalled.

Other towns, as indicated in the list above, met their quotas Saturday afternoon and evening, and reports from several others show that the committees are nearing the mark, and in all probability they will go over the top this evening or tomorrow. Among the townships which are close to their quotas are Brooklyn, Bradford, Lee Center, Sublette and Nelson.

AT ST. LUKE'S.
On Thursday, Memorial day, there will be a special service of prayer and intercession at St. Luke's church, at 10 a. m.

HINDENBURG RESUMES DRIVE FOR COAST AND PARIS ON TWO FRONTS

GERMANS REPORTED TO HAVE GAINED GROUND

Germans Have Recovered From Disastrous Reverse Last Month and Start Drive for Channel Ports and Paris Before Dawn This Morning—Attack French and British on Two Fronts With Heavy Bombardments and Great Masses of Troops

The Germans resumed their drive for a decision on the west front after a lapse of nearly four weeks, striking to the south between Rheims and Soissons and in Flanders on the northerly side of the Lys salient.

While it is too early for the true German intent to be disclosed, the effort apparently is simultaneously to push through to the channel ports on the north and thus break up the British front and to strike for Paris in the south in an effort aimed mainly at the French.

The main field of the German attack which was begun last March and was halted after the disastrous enemy reverse in Flanders late in April—the Somme region in the direction of Amiens—has been neglected by the German command in this new thrust. The possibility exists, however, that the fighting will be extended to this area as the battle develops.

The southern blow, which covers a front of some 40 miles, and is apparently by far the most important of the two, comes at a point which has not been considered the most probable field for the renewal of the German attempt. The fact that both the British and French troops hold this front give indications that General Foch, the allied commander in chief, is hardly caught napping and has large forces massed there.

The striking point in Flanders, while of far less magnitude, covering a front of less than ten miles, is nevertheless aimed at points which the Germans must take before they can hope to advance further toward the coast.

The Allies' positions on the fronts under attack are notably strong.

American troops may be in the new battle. Early in the spring there were several references in newspaper dispatches to the presence of Americans at that part of the line. There have been no recent references to Americans being there, however.

Attack on Wide Front

London, May 27.—Strong hostile attacks, preceded by a bombardment of great intensity, are proceeding on a wide front against the British and French between Rheims and Soissons and against French troops between Loere and Voormezele.

There was considerable hostile artillery activity yesterday and last night on the British front.

Was Heavy Bombardment

Paris, May 27.—Official.—During the latter part of the night the Germans carried out a very heavy bombardment all along the front between Pinon forest and Rheims. This morning the enemy attack progresses on a very extended front.

French troops are resisting the German thrust with their habitual valiance. The battle continues.

In the Champagne and in the Woevre there is active artillery fighting. During the night the Germans attempted several local attacks in Apremont forest, but were repulsed after spirited fighting, in which the Germans sustained heavy losses.

EXPERTS STUDY DIET

Department Specialists Supply Information Regarding Rational and Economical Use of Foods.

To furnish exact data on which food advice can be based and to supply information regarding the rational and economical use of foods is the war work of the Office of Home Economics, United States Department of Agriculture. Special attention is paid by the experts in this office to the problems of the housekeeper in using food and food combinations in such a way that the diet will be satisfactory and adequate and yet effect a saving of the foods which now need to be saved. Some phases of these investigations are brought out in a recent report of this office to the Secretary of Agriculture.

Studies on the digestibility and uses of culinary and table fats are one important line of work. Special attention is given to vegetable fats, such as nut oils and fruitseed oils which are little known or used, and which may be properly called agricultural by-products, to determine whether they are suited for use in the home for food purposes. Bulletins reporting these experiments have been issued and are being prepared for publication.

Continuing the work on the digestibility and uses of cereal foods, attention has been paid particularly to wheat flour made by the old-fashioned milling process, and to the use of grain sorghums — kafir, feterita, milo maize, kaoliang — and buckwheat, as well as the influence of fineness of grinding and preparation on the food value of these and other grains. From the work with milo and proso the general conclusion drawn by the specialists is that while bread from these meals would contribute to the protein of the diet, the grains used were decidedly important as a source of carbohydrates. Studies of home canning of animal and vegetable products, preparations of food for the table — particularly the use of fruits and vegetables dried by domestic methods — the extended use of potatoes as a starchy food, and the preparation of various grains in palatable forms as substitutes for wheat have been other features of these investigations. How housewives can plan rationally chosen economical meals has been suggested by the home economics specialists in a number of nontechnical Farmers' Bulletins. These have dealt with the body's food needs, cereal foods, foods rich in protein. There are also Farmers' Bulletins on food for young children and on school lunches.

In carrying on its work the Office of Home Economics works with other bureaus and with other departments. In cooperation with the Food Administration and with the Bureau of Education of the Department of the Interior, 10 lessons on food conservation were prepared. One of the lessons discussed the fundamentals of an adequate diet, and the others deal with food-conservation problems. Other cooperative work on food carried on during the year included studies of emergency rations for the United States army and navy and of general questions of rationing for the Revenue-Cutter Service. With the Bureau of Fisheries of the Department of Commerce studies were made on the preparation of fish for the table, its digestibility, and its preservation by domestic methods.

Other projects undertaken by this office deal with investigations looking to prolonging the period of usefulness of clothing and textiles, problems of cleaning and care of household equipment, and to studies of household labor.

Idle Acres.

Nearly every farm has some portion of it that is either not used at all or is used in such a way as to produce very little. On many farms there are patches of low ground which can not be tilled because they are too wet. Usually when drained these wet areas are the richest land on the farm.

Just at present, when the world is engaged in the most gigantic struggle in its history, the forces of democracy against those of autocracy, the product of these idle acres is needed. This is an excellent time to put them into use. Small patches of wet land can be drained at small expense. Between now and the opening up of spring work there is ample time to do the work. This year the farmer has been able to sell his products at a fair price and has the money with which to buy the tile. Every farmer, part of whose farm is unproductive because it needs drainage, should take advantage of the present opportunity to add to his cropping area by supplying the necessary drainage. These lands will produce more than average farm lands. Every product will help to win the war.

Poultry Feeds Tested.

In feeding experiments conducted by the Bureau of Animal Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, a ration without wheat or wheat products fed to Leghorn pullets gave an average annual production of 147.3 eggs. Cottonseed meal used to replace half the beef scrap in the mash has given good results and has had no bad effect on the quality of the eggs. Where cottonseed meal replaced all the beef scrap the results were unsatisfactory both in number and quality of eggs. Mussel meal has not proved as good a substitute for beef scrap as fish meal, which, to the amount of 25 per cent of the mash, has not affected the flavor or the taste of the eggs.

Both Irish and sweet potatoes are valuable sources of body fuel, on account of the large percentage of starch which they contain.

Germans Gain Ground

By Associated Press Leased Wire

With the British Army in France, May 27—The latest reports give the Germans some small progress at certain places.

The attack on the enemy north of Kemmel appears to be directed against the ground captured by the French on May 20. The Germans attacked against the entente positions northwest of Kemmel, at 4:30 o'clock this morning, after a heavy bombardment.

There was great activity on the part of the enemy on several sectors between Arras and Albert early today, but there had been no infantry attack up to 10 a. m.

Belgian troops have recorded fresh victories over the Germans. Sunday night they repulsed attacks or big raids in three places on their front.

WILSON APPEALS TO CONGRESS TO PASS TAX BILL QUICKLY

Cannot Guarantee Proper Administration of Treasury Without New Bill

LOBBYISTS WARNED

Delay Plan Falls Through and Bill Must Be Passed at Present Session

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, May 27—President Wilson personally took charge of the war tax legislation today and appeared unexpectedly before a joint session of congress and declared that it was necessary to proceed immediately with the new war tax law.

Plans which might have delayed the work, involving a working agreement between both parties, have fallen through, the president said, and there was no way of meeting the problem of financing the war but for congress to remain in session and proceed with the work.

The president called upon congress to eliminate politics and to consider politics "adjoined." The principal taxes, the president said, would be on incomes, war profits and luxuries. "It would be manifestly unfair," the president said, "to wait until 1919 before determining what the new tax would be."

Warns Lobbyists
In his speech today the president sounded a distinct warning against lobbying in connection with the new tax bill.

"There is undisputable evidence of profiteering at present," declared the president, "which must be reached by the new legislation. Profits which cannot be got at through conscience can be reached by tax."

"There need be no hesitancy in taxing the country," the president told congress, "if it is taxed justly." He appealed to congress to approach the great task without selfishness or fear of political consequences and appealed to congress to work ungrudgingly and said that he could not guarantee a proper administration of the treaty unless the question is settled at once.

Spoke of New Drive.
In an unexpected and extemporaneous statement, the president said just as he was leaving the White House for the capitol that he heard the news that the Germans had started their new drive and that it added to the solemnity of his conception of congress' duty.

M'ADOO JUMPS RAIL RATES 25 PER CENT

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, May 27—To meet the wage increases of $300,000,000 just announced and the high cost of coal and other supplies, Director McAdoo announces a raise in freight rates of 25 per cent and a new passenger rate of 3 cents a mile, raising from the present rate of about 2 1/2 cents per mile. It is estimated that the raises will bring between $800,000,000 and $900,000,000 more revenue to the railroads in a year.

It represents by far the biggest increase in the history of railroads. The new freight charges, which cover both class and commodity rates, go into effect June 25, while the new passenger rates will be effective June 10.

Travelers in standard sleeping cars will be required to pay 3 1/2 cents a mile in addition to their Pullman fares, and in tourist sleepers the rate will be 3 1/2 cents a mile. Pullman rates are the same. Commutation and other suburban rates will be increased 10 per cent. Electric interurban rates will not be affected.

Exceptions to the three-cent rates are made for soldiers and sailors who may travel for 1 cent a mile when on a furlough at their own expense.

SALTS IF BACKACHE AND KIDNEYS HURT

Drink lots of water and stop eating meat for a while if your bladder troubles you.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.

France, April 28, 1918.
Dear Folks at Home: Will write a few lines today as I have not had any mail here yet. Some of the boys have gotten mail. I don't expect any for another week. I am working every day now. Don't know yet what I will do after I get my permanent job. There is sure plenty of work over here. Today being Sunday we didn't have any daily fatigue. I just came back from taking a bath. We have hot water to bathe with, also showers and a real bath house.

Wish you could see the beds we have to sleep in. They don't have any springs. Four sleep in one bed, two up and two down. I happen to have an upper.

I imagine the spring's work is getting pretty well done by this time. Have you got any one working for you this summer? Over here some women work in the fields, so if you are short of help I suppose Ben will help some.

Write as often as you can, and tell anyone who wants to, to write. I will try and answer with one of those cards. Will write a card every other week, as the censor will have enough to do without sending so many letters, and besides I don't know what to write for a letter every week. Hope this finds you all well. I am fine. Waiting for an answer.

Mrs. Eichler and Mrs. Hey were named as delegates to state federation which according to a recent change in the constitution, will be held in Springfield instead of the fall, and Mrs. Coppins and Mrs. L. W. Newcomer were named alternates. For the district federation Mrs. Eichler and Mrs. O. L. Baird were chosen delegates. Mrs. Charles Herrick and Mrs. A. C. Harger, alternates.

Peculiar Forms of Currency.
Before the mechanism of exchange between the countries was firmly established and before the development of trade by rail and water, it was necessary to use other means of payment. In Abyssinia rings and other objects of decoration were used as a medium of exchange. Fish were used in Newfoundland; Marco Polo states that porcelain was adopted in Asia; Humboldt remembers when cocoa took the place of money in Mexico. In the colonial days in the United States tobacco was used in Virginia and furs in the Hudson Bay district, while in Scotland nails were employed for the payment of purchases.

Nature's Gift to Lower Animals.

The penguin, having a wing for swimming, and not flying, is in appearance more like a turtle than a bird. His short legs are placed far backward. When standing, he must be straight up and down to keep his balance, with the center of gravity immediately above the base of support. Wading birds with featherless legs, have webbed feet, enabling them to shift their centers of gravity whether wading, flying or swimming. The webs between the toes, as in water-spaniel dogs and retrievers, form oars, such as no human has been able to imitate.

The Advantage of Giving

PRESIDENT WILSON hit a moral nail squarely on the head when he remarked, in his New York Red Cross speech: "Down in your hearts you can't take very much satisfaction in lending money to the government of the United States, because the interest which you draw will burn your pockets; it is a commercial transaction. But when you give, something of your very heart, something of your very soul, something of yourself goes with the gift, particularly when it is given in such form that it never can come back by way of direct benefit to yourself."

We are obliged to lend our money to the government for war purposes, because, as Mr. Wilson explains, the government cannot accept anything but a loan. But the Red Cross can and does accept gifts. And therein is the opportunity of all whose hearts are in the struggle and who want to feel that they are helping in a more vital way than through profitable investment.

The supreme merit of giving to the Red Cross is that there is in it no expectation of benefits to come back directly to the giver. They may of course come back to the giver's son, or brother, husband or sweetheart.
But the gifts are made for any who may need them, unselfishly, patriotically.
The cause is worthy enough for any sacrifice.

"These things are bestowed in order that the world may be a better place to live in, that men may be succored, that homes may be restored, that suffering may be relieved, that the face of the earth may have the blight of destruction taken away from it, and that wherever force goes there shall go mercy and helpfulness."

It's really a very old idea. Wasn't it said nineteen centuries ago, "It is more blessed to give than to receive"? But how long it takes us to realize that that is not a mere figure of speech, a mere poetic fancy, but the literal truth!

Some wise Frenchman once wrote: "The dead take with them in their clenched hands only those things which they have given away."

False Forethought

THERE'S such a thing as overdoing financial foresightedness. Preparations for meeting the income tax payments the middle of next month afford a good example. Thousands of people, in their eagerness to have the necessary funds ready to make the payment, are said to be holding back from the payment of current bills. The result is bad for the general financial situation and for almost everybody concerned.

Most of these foresighted persons do not consider that when they neglect to pay a bill falling due before June 15, they are making it harder for their creditor to meet his income tax payment. By the same token, that creditor is making it harder for his creditors, because he can't pay them even if he wants to. And so the thing runs on and on, in an endless chain, everybody tightening up and money being hoarded instead of remaining in circulation.

And in the end the people who started the holding-back business suffer the same penalty themselves. The evil inevitably comes around to them, because on account of the stringency that they have fostered the people who owe them money can't pay them.

A proper degree of forethought is right and desirable. But it's easy to carry it too far. The main thing, in this or any other time, is to keep money freely in circulation, with everybody paying everybody else instead of everybody owing everybody else. Economize wisely, but pay for what you get, and do it promptly. Make the money work. It will pay current bills and pay the income tax, too, if it's given a chance.

Professors Spahn Indorses "Superman" Idea

PROFESSOR SPAHN of Strassburg is the latest to air his views on the superiority of the Germans. He indicates that unity of nations must be based on the leadership of the "most efficient people," and of course he sees no efficiency anywhere except in Germany.

Professor Spahn is quoted in an influential German magazine of recent date. He says: "The need of the present hour is not universal peace and rule of law and freedom of peoples, but clearness about vital conditions of the German people and state and about the full development of our own state of existence. If the dream of the unity of the European peoples is to become a reality, it cannot be based upon the equality of all. Peoples are made for equality just as little as are individuals. Unity must be based upon the leadership of the most efficient people. Only a race so full of idealism as the Germans is capable of lighting the horizon of humanity with an idea so great and eternal."

Professor Spahn is a fit representative of the German junkers, who are mad with lust of power. It is a madness which is sure to lure them and their autocratic government to downfall.

Let's Take Wilson's Advice

NOW comes the request to pastors and people to take President Wilson at his word—that he desires that Memorial day may be made once more a day of consecration and prayer, not a mere day of sports and picnics.

It is meet that in this time of warfare, when this nation is fighting for liberty for all peoples—for a real brotherhood of man—that we should at the same time acknowledge the Fatherhood of God, and that this is a Christian nation.

It will be akin to desecration to make the coming Memorial day a day of sports and merrymaking.

American patriotism is now well-gauged by the wheat meter. The food administration tells us that the American people are now eating only 35 per cent of our normal quantity of wheat. That's the kind of patriotism that will win the war.

American troops in France are said to be greatly pleased at learning that the folks back home are waking up. Whenever an American soldier dies in France a few more sleepy heads over here rub their eyes. Let's not wait till too many of the boys are taken.

SWEATER HOLDER

Have you ever hung your pet sweater away on a coat hanger for a couple of days? If you have, you have probably found it stretched most distressingly when you took it down again. So then, have you hung it, ever so carefully, up on a hook?

Yes? Then, of course, you have found a most annoying little bump in the wool where it hung.

So, then, perhaps, you have decided to keep your sweaters in a bureau drawer and you have caught them on the edge of the drawer and pulled a thread.

Well, here is a suggestion to make the keeping of your sweaters truly easy. Have a special sweater holder.
This special holder is no more than a huge embroidery ring, of the sort that is used for the handles and tops of knitting bags. Attach a ribbon or tape to the ring at each end, and by means of this ribbon hang it on a hook. Then pull the sweater thru the ring. Several may be placed on the same ring without any trouble.

The ring, to be best fitted for its work, should be wound with satin ribbon. The quality need not be expensive, but the shiny surface of the satin ribbon makes it easier to pull the sweaters thru the ring and there is no possibility of splinters from the surface of the wood when it is covered in this way.

Reasons for Potatoes With Meat
Meat and potatoes are a good food combination, and may be a better diet than bread and meat, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. At this time, when a plentiful supply of potatoes makes them cheap,
and when wheat and flour are high,
the average family, says the department, may find it wise to eat less wheat foods, and to use potatoes instead. Potatoes at a dollar a bushel give more energy and good mineral basis than bread at 5 cents a half-pound loaf.

Most persons like potatoes with meat, and they furnish valuable starch; but it is pointed out that mere starch is not all that is needed, and that the mineral content of potatoes
is of value in counteracting the acid-forming substances in meat. These acids are present also in cereals, while vegetables, fruit, and milk have an excess of neutralizing alkalis. Therefore potatoes are better with meats than are rice, bread, and macaroni.

Furthermore, potatoes assist in regulating the digestive tract, to a greater extent than white flour, macaroni, and polished rice. Potatoes may be added to the diet in bread itself by mixing a portion of finely mashed potatoes with flour.

Low-priced foods can be made to taste just as good as the higher-priced
ones when cooked long, and savory vegetables and other flavoring materials added.

EFFICIENT FARM DRAINAGE.

Frequent Inspection of Drains, and Ditches and Prompt Repairs, Necessary.

In the spring of the year, when land
is being prepared for planting, there are frequent complaints from farmers that the drainage systems which they constructed a year or more before are not improving the land as they had expected. Perhaps the soil is just as it was before installing drainage, but is this a valid reason for condemning drainage? To answer this question correctly, other questions must first be answered. Were the drainage improvements in the first place properly designed and constructed? If the answer to this question is affirmative, may not some defective condition have developed in the system since construction? Have the ditches been kept open and clean or have they been permitted to cave in and deteriorate generally? Have the outlets to the tile drains been allowed to close during the winter? Have the inlets and catch basins been permitted to become choked with leaves and other dry vegetable matter of the previous season? If these conditions exist, does not the failure of the system to give the desired results lie with the farmer
rather than the system?

In the spring, when the root system of the young plant is developing, it is essential that the level of the ground water be maintained at such a depth as always to permit free growth of the roots downward as well as laterally.
The control of the water level is the purpose of any drainage improvement.
The largest returns on money invested in such improvements can be obtained only when they accomplish their real purpose, and this purpose can be accomplished only by keeping the drains in the best possible state of efficiency.

To obtain the greatest degree of efficiency in drainage improvements, as in any other work, frequent inspection is necessary. Brush and weeds should be cut from the banks of the open ditches and the latter cleaned out to the proper depth. Openings should be made into the ditches where necessary to permit the surface water in the fields to flow off rapidly.

In tile systems, if the outlet has not been protected by a headwall, one should be constructed, for unprotected outlets are often damaged by stock and the action of surface water. If a tile drain empties into an open ditch or swale, steps should be taken to see that sufficient fall exists in the ditch to remove the water as fast as it is discharged from the tile; otherwise
the water will back up into the tile
and the efficiency of the drain will be impaired. Where surface inlets and sand traps have been installed in a tile system these should be examined,
and cleaned if necessary.

To realize the maximum results
from any drainage system it is therefore essential that inspection be frequent and that necessary repairs be made promptly.

SELF-FEEDER FOR HOGS.

Most Rapid as Well as Economical
Gains Made by Allowing Animals
to Help Themselves.

The quickest, easiest, and most economical method of fattening pigs, with the least expenditure of grain and labor, is through the use of self-feeders.
A self-feeder consists of a hopper large enough to hold a supply of feed sufficient to last several days and a trough below it into which the grain flows as the pigs eat it. Hogs do not overeat, as might naturally be supposed, when they have free access to these feeders, but a number of tests conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture and various State experiment stations show that with the ingredients of a good ration constantly before them they will make gains more rapidly and economically than when fed by hand. Results of experiments setting forth these facts, together with plans for constructing self-feeders, have been published in Farmers' Bulletin 906, "The Self-Feeder
for Hogs."

The marked success of the self-feeding system is largely due to the fact that the hogs may eat an abundant of those feeds which will nourish them to the best advantage. By this plan the average farmer will have as good results as the most expert hand feeder, and the results will be obtained at much less expense of time and labor. All the tests referred to show that the increased feed consumption and the more rapid daily gains are not made at the expense of efficient use of feed.

The self-feeder may be adapted to the use of any kind of grain or feed,
although shelled corn and ground feeds are most commonly used. Ear corn may be fed by this method, if the hopper is of sufficient size to hold enough feed for several days without refilling. In order that the self-feeder may readily be adapted to different kinds of grain, it should be constructed with some means of regulating the opening through which the feed passes.
Care should be taken to see that the self-feeders are always supplied with each feed, for if one part of the ration is missing the pigs will naturally eat an increased amount of any other available and in such case will make very poor use of it. The grain feeds may be mixed or placed in different compartments and fed separately. The latter plan is more successful, for the pigs have been found to be able to balance their own rations
as their appetites demand.

Some food may become dangerous even before it shows outward signs of decomposition. Always keep food in clean utensils and use it without unnecessary delay.

gument and one called the other a

BACCALAUREATE FOR

Rev. Babin Preached Inspiring Sermon to Graduating Class Members

HIGHER NATIONALISM

The North Dixon high school graduates were given a beautiful baccalaureate service at St. Luke's Episcopal church at the Sunday vesper service. The usual form of evening prayer was followed, one special number, an anthem, "O Faith Supreme" taken from Shelley's cantata, "The Soul Triumphant," being beautifully rendered by the choir. The 24 members of the class and the faculty preceded the choir in the processional,
the clergy following. Rev. H. M.
Babin, the rector, presented a most pertinent message, taking as his theme the opportunities of the young people in the present day, higher nationalism, and religious opportunities and responsibilities. The address was an excellent one, replete with good things.

There are few diseases more prevalent than Asthma; few more distressing and painful
and few more tenacious and dangerous.
The several forms are known to medical science as Bronchial Asthma, Catarrh-commonly known as Hay Fever).

Repeated attacks result in a chronic asthmatic condition, the symptoms of which are a dilation of the lungs and bronch-
i, and tubercular formations.
La Grippe and even the simple cold neglected often lead to fatal results. There is nothing more menacing to ones health than the ordinary cough or cold.

MEDILL M'CORMICK IN MEMORIAL TALK IN PALMYRA SUNDAY

Noted Illinois Statesman
Gave Interesting Speech
at Sugar Grove

TOLD OF GREAT FIGHT

Atty. Warner Introduced
Speaker, Who Is Candidate for Senate

Medill McCormick, Congressman-at-large from Illinois and a candidate for the republican nomination for United States Senator, was the speaker of the day at the Memorial day exercises at Sugar Grove church in Palmyra township yesterday afternoon. The meeting was extremely large and Congressman McCormick's speech was very enthusiastically received. Always a brilliant orator the young statesman had yesterday a subject which inspired him.

Mr. McCormick was introduced by Attorney Harry Warner of Dixon who referred, in his introduction, to Palmyra's illustrious history in trying times of other years and the town ship's notable patriotism in the present great struggle.

Mr. McCormick talked from a stand in the grove beside the church.

Mr. McCormick said that his audience was gathered in memory, not only of those brave men who died to save the union or to drive the Spaniard from this hemisphere, but in memory of all men who had struggled, lived and died that the liberty of men might be wider and the security of men might be greater. Concerning the great world war, he said that the democratic nations of western Europe, including the little neutral nations whose border line were "ringed with fire," and the great republic of America were the sponsors and the champions of liberty and equality, and that among those nations with whom we are at war there has been no champion of liberty, except individuals who have been driven from their birthplaces because of their republican ideals. The blood and iron principle of Bismarck and his heirs to the power of central Europe, and the principles by which free people love, cannot stand together.

Our history, as that of other people, has been marked by wars, said Congressman McCormick, but the wars in which America has taken a part, every one of them, have each born fruit in wider liberty for mankind.

Our first war established a free colony on America's shores. The war of the revolution determined the existence of our nation. The Mexicans were repelled from what now is the empire west. The war of the rebellion saved our nation and freed our slaves. We drove the Spaniard from this hemisphere. All our wars resulted in greater liberty for mankind. We are now engaged in the greatest enterprise mankind has ever known, the issue of which depends upon the power of America.

With the collapse of Russia, the tide of battle ran against those who are now our allies. Since then the tide of battle has run against our allies, and let us humbly thank God for the news that the tide was going against us, for to men of such stock and heritage as Americans it brought courage and stubborn resolution to fight through to the end, and achieve victory, cost what it may.

Here in America is the last great reservoir of power in the world. Here are the forges and furnaces that produce more steel than all the embattled nations of Europe, friend and foe combined. Here is practically unlimited man power.

This war is a great industrial enterprise, and we are an industrial people and will conduct it as no one else could.

It was my fortune, continued Mr. McCormick, to be present at the greatest artillery battle of the war before the big German offensive came this spring.

The last battle of the Chemin des Dames was planned in July to be fought in October. The French had laid well night a thousand miles of broad and narrow gauge track to bring up the great guns and the munitions for their service. They had brought in 110 train loads of high explosives. There was a cannon for every three or four yards at the front front attacked. For every two infantrymen employed in that action there were three men engaged in the service of the artillery.

We set out very early from the French headquarters for the front along a highway checked with traffic, motor-driven or motor-drawn trucks carrying forward supplies of ammunition, horse-drawn light artillery and food convoys, field kitchens, stretcher bearers, ambulances, battalions and brigades, African blacks from the Senegal, yellow-skinned Asiatics from Annam and Cochinchina, the bronze tribesmen of Morocco, soldiers from every province of dauntless France. At intervals, and each a little distance from the grinding roads, there were the headquarters of the commanders of the army of that particular front, of an army corps on that sector, each differing only in size, each housed in a quiet villa. Every such headquarters was linked to the other commands by wires, so that each commander could communicate with his chief or follow and direct every move under him with his eyes on a relief map, which pictured to him hillside and hamlet, stream and farm house, highway and bridge, battery and entrenchment.

We worked our way forward, the soldiers on the front seat pressing the slower vehicles to the side. Presently the traffic began to melt along the light railways and narrow roads which lead to the actual line. The main highway was clearing. The driver hurried the car and hurried it still more.

We could hear the voice of battle softly calling, still far off.

We raced past the nets of grass and leaves—camouflage—which as the road neared the front screened traffic from the enemy airplanes, and turned up a rough road, over a steep hill, dropped down and came to a stop under some bombed and broken buildings.

The air roared. There were waves upon waves of sound as thousands of noises overlapped one another, shaken together, rolling apart, as far as the ears could hear, even farther—as far as the senses could imagine hearing, while overhead the many airplanes looked like a flock of birds and through the reverberation of the guns, their engines sometimes eshummed like distant sawmills. There were no ear-splitting shocks such as you have seen described. There are none save when you are near a battery or perhaps when a shell bursts too near, but the air was filled, saturated by the sound of guns, and now and then punctured by the popping of the shrapnel overhead.

Before us was the Chemin des Dames, "the road of the ladies," the blood-drenched "road of the ladies," along which for months men fought and waited, in hate, to fight again. Picture a long, low, flat-topped ridge, its sides covered with forests and pierced by caverns—quarries really, from which stones had been taken for the building of Paris. Here and here the ridge widens into a larger mass, from which in turn run out spurs. Such a place was it that the French planned to take. Along the center of the flat top of the ridge "uns the "road of the ladies" flanked on either side by wasted fields, once fertile with the minute care of the French husbandman. Across the road the advance posts of the armies faced each other. Beyond the ridge is a valley cut by a little stream and then another ridge upon which was placed a great part of the German artillery. Southwest of the Chemin des Dames here was also a valley and stream and another ridge, on which French had found emplacements for so many of the guns as were not thrust forward on the spurs of the larger mass which it was proposed to attack.

We had stopped in front of a hut, partly dug in the ground and partly built of sand bags and roofed with railroad iron and still more bags of sand. A calm little man in uniform of a general of a colonial division came forward to greet us. "Permit me," he said as we shook hands, "to introduce you to our 'wrecking contractor.'" I looked at the contractor with some wonder, which doubtless expressed itself on my face, for the general of the division continued "It is his function as chief of artillery to wreck the batteries and defenses of the enemy so that our infantry as it goes forward may not be cut up." I then sought to catechize the chief of artillery, but our host interrupted to lead us to the sand bag and dugout hut, which was staff headquarters and mess hall for the division. The windows shook in the shocked air. In spite of us Americans it was impossible to confine the conversation to the subject of the attack outside. The officers wished to question us as much as we did to question them.

When all this had been explained we moved down toward the front, first past the dugouts, which were lodging the infantry waiting for the attack to be made in the mist at dawn. There guns behind, before, on either side. The screaming of our own shells overhead, could not be distinguished from the "arrivals" as the French dub the enemy shots. Then up past the final observation post and down to the last light batteries, just back of the trenches. Here we closed our ears to the steady pounding of the guns that did the work—that is, the guns that did the work. They blasted the way for the infantry and destroyed the enemy batteries overwhelmed, stunned, slaughtered the enemy infantry, so that on the October morning when the French advanced in the measured pace of modern charges, they took with almost mathematical precision that which was planned last July for them to take and they took it with astonishingly little loss.

Mr. McCormick spoke of how the two regiments of American engineers of the U. S. army threw themselves into the breach when the Germans started their big push this spring, and how they helped to hold that bloody lane until Foch and his hosts could come up.

Concluding, the speaker referred to the Old Soldiers of the Republic, most of whom are now "bivouacked about the throne of the Lord God of hosts."

"Let us vow that while an American lives the fires of liberty shall never die."

Impressive Ceremonies. Before Mr. McCormick delivered his address impressive exercises were held in the church under the direction of Bert Pearl, superintendent of the Sugar Grove Sunday school, who had charge of the meeting. Rev. F. D. Altman offered prayer and a fine musical program was given by young ladies, gentlemen and children of the school.

After the address of the day a firing squad fired a salute over the graves of departed soldiers in the Sugar Grove cemetery.

In the case of meat and meat products the necessities for shipment abroad are very great. Whereas the Allied consumption has been reduced to an average of about 1 1/4 pounds per person per week, we are today enjoying an average of about 3 3/4 pounds per person per week. This division is inequitable. An understanding of these facts will justify our request that the consumption of all meats, including poultry, as nearly as possible be reduced to 2 pounds per week per person over four years of age.

In the case of sugar, we are embarrassed by the necessity of using ships for carrying our soldiers and feeding the Allies, and in consequence we must use sugar with great economy. We must emphasize the importance of canning and preserving on a large scale among our people this summer and our available sugar must be conserved for this purpose.

But the situation with regard to wheat is the most serious in the food supply of the Allied World. If we are to satisfy the minimum wheat requirements of our armies and the Allies, and the suffering millions in the Allied countries, our consumption of wheat in the United States until the next harvest must be reduced to approximately one-third of normal. It is inconceivable that we should fail in this crisis. For each of us who can personally contribute to the relief of human suffering it is a privilege, not a sacrifice. All elements of our population cannot bear this burden equally. Those engaged in physical labor need a larger bread ration than those in sedentary occupations. Because of the constant daily employment of women and the lack of home baking facilities, many households in large urban centers require a food ration already prepared, such as the baker's standard Victory bread loaf. Furthermore, we must constantly safeguard the special requirements of children and invalids.

To meet the situation suffering at home, it is imperative that all those whose circumstances permit, shall abstain from wheat and wheat products in any form until the next harvest. It is realized and deeply appreciated that many organizations and some communities have already agreed to follow this plan.

It is hoped that you will communicate this to your organization and your community, urging those whose circumstances will permit, to join with us and take this stand.

JOSEPH MERLO VICTIM OF BRAIN HEMORRHAGE

Died Suddenly Sunday Evening While Preparing
Glass of Lemonade

INQUEST WAS HELD

Jerome Merlo, aged about forty, a brother of John Merlo, proprietor of the California Garden confectionery, 222 First street, died suddenly in a room over the fruit store at about 9:30 o'clock Sunday night, death resulting from a hemorrhage of the brain, with which he was suddenly stricken while making himself a glass of lemonade.

The victim of the attack had attended a movie theatre and returning to his room had removed his coat and overshirt and was preparing the drink when suddenly blood gushed from his nose, ears and mouth. His death followed in a very few minutes.

The remains were removed to Mrs. Jones' morgue and Coroner Whetston was notified at his home in Steward. He arrived in Dixon during the morning to conduct the inquest.

Mr. Merlo, who was an Italian, had been a resident of Dixon for a number of years, and until about three months ago was employed at the state colony. He is survived by his two brothers, John of Dixon and Nicholas, who left Saturday for New Orleans, and one sister.

The jury, composed of J. M. Sterling, C. H. Eastman, Thomas McCann, John Herbst, H. Raffenberg and Lewis Ogle, returned a verdict that death had resulted from apoplexy.

Pending word from the brother, Nicholas, who is en route to New Orleans, no arrangements for the funeral had been made today.

When boiling a custard, add about half a teaspoonful cornstarch; this will insure its not burning.

A little ball of sealing wax on the end of a knitting needle will keep the knitting from sliding off.

The dishcloth is a poor thing with which to wipe pots and pans; it is not free from soap and grease.

Whip cream in a fruit jar by shaking it up and down for about five minutes. This saves much whipping in the ordinary way and also saves the cream as not a drop escapes.

Housewives often find cloths when used for pressing suits and woolen goods leave lint. If newspaper laid over the cloth and dampened is used there will be no such difficulty.

Ironing boards may be protected from dust by taking two paper flour sacks, cutting the bottom from one and pasting on top of the other to form the required length. Slip this over the board when putting away.

When broiling, if the fire is too hot sprinkle over it a thin layer of fine ashes or a handful of salt. Better still, lay a folded sheet of newspaper on the fire and put on the lid; when the paper has burned out, its ashes will smother the fire sufficiently and you can broil the meat without burning.

Buckwheat Finds Use Combined With Wheat.

Buckwheat bread and "buckcake" have been found appetizing substitutes for wheat flour, in tests made in the baking laboratory of the Ohio Experiment Station. Buckwheat bread resembles graham or whole wheat bread in color and flavor.

For this bread a cake of compressed yeast, and two tablespoonfuls of sugar or molasses are added to a cup of milk and a cup of water; then a tablespoonful of lard or butter is put in, and finally 2½ cups of buckwheat flour and a cup of wheat flour are sifted in along with three tablespoonfuls of salt. When the mixture is like a stiff batter it is ready to be put in greased pans and after rising two hours baked for 30 minutes.

For buckcake, three-fourths of a cup of buckwheat flour is added to as much wheat flour, three tablespoonfuls of baking powder, two tablespoonfuls of sugar or molasses and a teaspoonful of salt; then add three-fourths of a cup of milk, a well-beaten egg and a tablespoonful of melted butter, and bake for 25 minutes in a hot oven.

Apple Souffle.

4 tart apples, 4 tablespoonfuls cornstarch, 1 tablespoonful flour, ¾ cup cold water, ¾ teaspoon salt, 1 cup boiling water, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 teaspoon lemon, ¾ teaspoon nutmeg, 3 eggs, sugar.

Pare, core and cook apples; rub through a coarse sieve. Blend the flour and cornstarch in cold water; add the butter and salt and cornstarch mixture to boiling water; cook until thick, smooth, and glossy; add apple pulp, nutmeg, lemon juice, and sugar to sweeten. Remove from the fire and add beaten egg yolks. Fold in beaten whites. Bake in moderate oven until firm and smooth.

Cornmeal and Cheese.

Measure partly cooked cornmeal and add two tablespoonfuls of grated cheese to each cupful of cornmeal. Mix and bake in oven twenty minutes.

Most Cosmopolitan City.

Cairo, which is the meeting place of the East and the West, is popularly supposed to offer more varied types than any other city in the world, but even Cairo is not so cosmopolitan as Jerusalem. People come here from everywhere on earth as they go to Cairo, but they do not become fused with the other races. The Bohemian Jew is easily distinguished by his strikingly Mongolian features, and the Yemen Jew learns no language but Arabic, while his brother from Russia often speaks Yiddish, and the men who come from Portugal and Spain cling to their respective languages, customs and costumes, having only Hebrew beliefs that make them Jews of a common stock. The same thing is true of most of the other people from Europe, Nations have their respective quarters, and their inhabitants do not mingle with the people of other nations to any degree. The same thing is true of the religionists. America has been called the "melting pot" of the nations, and it is true that over there all the nations are being fused. In Jerusalem, as in no other place, they never fuse, and remain always the same.—Exchange.

Suez Canal Long Planned.

The history of Suez goes far back into Egyptian times. At various times, the projects were abandoned and the canals permitted to fill up. When Napoleon invaded Egypt, he revived the plan for the establishment of a maritime canal and ordered a survey to be made. At that time, it was generally believed that the Red sea was 30 feet higher than the Mediterranean, but careful levelings across the isthmus showed them to be practically the same height. Napoleon did not build the canal, however, and de Lesseps presented his scheme to the viceroy of Egypt. It was delayed by political opposition, until an international commission recommended the route which was afterward adopted, the necessary capital was raised and the work was begun.

Rapid Penmen's Records.

The average person has no idea how much muscular effort is expended in writing a letter. A rapid penman can write 30 words in a minute. To do this he must draw his pen through the space of 16½ feet. In 40 minutes his pen travels a furlong, and in five hours a third of a mile. In writing an average word the penman makes in the neighborhood of 16 curves of the pen. Thus a writing 30 words to the minute his pen would make 480 curves, 28,800 curves in an hour, and 86,400,000 in a year of 300 days of ten hours each. The man who succeeded in making 1,000,000 marks with a pen in a month was not at all remarkable. Many men make 4,000,000 while writing.

Grass on Volcanic Soil.

The island of Ascension, which was described by Sir Joseph Hooker, as a "scorched mass of volcanic matter, in part resembling bottle-glass and in part coke and cinders," has recently undergone a sudden transformation, owing to the appearance of a luxuriant mantle of grass. According to a Kew Bulletin the grass is Eriopogon mollis; it has never been reported from the island before, but is a native of tropical Africa. Whether the seeds were borne to the island by the birds of the wind is uncertain, but their sudden germination appears to have been due to the occurrence of copious showers—a rare event in Ascension.—Scientific American.

Electric Rain Producer.

The director of the radio telegraph department of the commonwealth of Australia has invented an electrical device for increasing the rainfall, and thus far his experiments have been remarkably successful. He filled a dam in the desert country with 16,800,000 gallons in three months. A long time and not much water, it is true, but still remarkable in a region of very low rainfall. His device is a huge kite supplied with electricity. These kites are let up on galvanized flexible wire and they go to an altitude of between 4,000 and 6,000 feet. The negative current is taken from the earth by means of a terminal which is well grounded.—Argonaut.

Foundation of All Things is Truth.

Over the gate of Harvard university is inscribed this word, "Veritas." It means "the truth." And the very position of the word suggests that the search for truth is not easy. There is much in the world that looks like truth that is far from it. The truth lies at the bottom of all fact. It is the foundation of all sciences. It is that which guarantees commerce and the credit system. It is the ground work of character. Only those who are willing to toll, weigh and test things can arrive at the truth. But when once learned it is yours forever. That in itself makes it worth all it costs.

Alliteration.

In a little New York town the proud parents of tiny twins have named their latest offspring Keith and Kerwick, their other four children being called Kenneth, Kelen, Keetha and Kendrick. That family seems to be as fond of the initial K as a certain Boston family was of the name Emerson. A little Boston thoroughbred, on going to school for the first time, was asked his name and he replied, "Emerson E. E. Emerson." "And what do the two E's stand for?" he was asked, and the lad replied, "Why, Emerson, of course."

Baldness Conquered

RECIPE MAILED FREE

A veteran business man, who was almost completely bald and had tried numerous tonics, lotions, shampoos, etc., without benefit, came across, while on a journey, an Indians' recipe by which he grew a complete crop of healthy, luxuriant hair that he now possesses. Others—men and women—have reported remarkable hair growth by the same method. Whoever wishes the recipe may obtain it free by writing to John Hart Brittain, BA-222, Station F, New York, N. Y. Or obtain a box of the ointment, Kotakol, made according to the perfected recipe, at the drug store, ready for use.

Indians' Secret of Hair Growth

In a vast number of cases, when hair falls out, the roots are not dead, but remain imbedded in the scalp, alive, like seeds or bulbs, needing only fertility. The usual alkaline shampoos, alcoholized hair tonics, etc., are of no avail in such cases. The Indians' ointment nourishes the hair and stimulates the growth. Kotakol fertilizes the scalp and induces hair growth in every case possible; wonderful results reported. For men, women's and children's hair. If you are bald, or losing hair, or have dandruff, you should try Kotakol. It is a pleasure to observe the starting of new hair and its steady increase until a prolific growth supercedes thin hair or baldness. Cut out this notice; show to others who want beautiful hair. The recipe is free. This is genuine.

NATIONAL TRADE MARK FOR PROTECTION OF GOODS MADE IN AMERICA WILL BE AVAILABLE

Washington, May 27.—A national trademark for the protection of the American goods abroad and to insure a high standard of quality will be available for the use of manufacturers in the United States when congress agrees on bills now pending to authorize the Department of Commerce to design such an emblem and regulate its use.

"Made in Germany" goods and the insidious propaganda accompanying that notorious mark will be combated after the war by the American sign, standing for an honest product and square dealing to all.

The trademark will be pictorial or symbolic, recognizable in all countries regardless of the language that is spoken. The printed mark, "Made in U. S. A.," which some manufacturers have been using, was found to mean nothing to millions of foreigners, to the Chinese, for instance, who speak only their native tongue. American consular officials frequently have urged that "Made in U. S. A." should be written on the goods also in the language of the country where they were to be sold.

Another objection to the printed mark has been that it was subject to misinterpretation in British countries, where it might be mistaken to mean "Made in Union of South Africa" or "Made in United States of Australia."

While the first necessity for such a trademark is to protect American goods in foreign countries, a very important effect of its use will be to insure that manufacturers sold in interstate commerce are kept up to a standard and are in fact what they are represented to be by salesmen or by advertising. It is the present intention of the Department of Commerce to restrict the use of the proposed national trademark to such manufacturers and in connection with such commodities as will meet certain standards of trade practice, as well as of quality.

The proposal for a national trademark has been endorsed by President Wilson, to whom Secretary Redfield submitted the first bill for suggestions before it was introduced in congress. Secretary Lane and Secretary Houston also have been actively interested in the bill. Numerous commercial organizations, private citizens and trade papers have approved the idea.

Many small manufacturers have been unable to enter the export market because they cannot afford to go to the expense of protecting their trademark in the foreign markets. To these manufacturers permission to use a national trademark at a nominal fee would be a great boon, if such mark were protected by the government throughout the world. It will also be a boon to many larger manufacturers who have had their own trademarks pirated in one or more foreign countries. In such countries these large manufacturers need only place the national emblem upon their products. The foreign consumer, therefore, will soon recognize that even goods bearing an American private brand are not necessarily American, unless such brand is accompanied by the national trademark.

Small manufacturers are not at quite a disadvantage as compared with large manufacturers because of the inability of the latter to expend huge sums in nationally advertising their products. The quasi-monopoly secured in this way by large manufacturers will be to a very large extent vitiated by permitting the small manufacturer of integrity to use upon his goods of recognized quality the national symbol which will be freely advertised throughout the world to a far greater extent than any private trademark ever could be.

tional symbol which will be freely advertised throughout the world to a far greater extent than any private trademark ever could be.

"American goods, rather than Americans and their persons, are to be the correct means of winning friends for this country" in the opinion of the officials. "The national trade symbol if properly exploited and used should enable us to reach rich markets and people we have never before done."

Turkish Calendar a Puzzle.
According to the Mohammedan religious calendar, December 11 is New Year's day, but the Turkish financial year gives a different reckoning. Then, the Christian unbeliever and the Jewish "glaour"—also have to be taken into consideration. According to the Hebrew calendar, December 11 is the first of the month of Tebet, year 5678, and this information also goes into the Turkish calendar for the benefit of the Jewish population of the empire. Christians who claim allegiance to the Greek church, numerous in Turkey, are also given a subdivision in the Turkish calendar, December 11 being their November 27, while another section gives the new style date of December 11. Arabs and Armenians are also given a line, in their own language. The combination of diverse dates makes a Turkish calendar about as mystifying as a railroad timetable.

"Boiling-Over" Guard.
Among the various devices which are intended to prevent milk from boiling over, a report comes of one which solves the problem in a very simple way, and the device is very easily made up. It consists of a straight tube of say two or three inches diameter at the top and expanding somewhat toward the bottom, where it is provided with a flaring and cup-shaped end of rather large diameter, the whole being somewhat of a trumpet shape. Out of the lower part are cut four suitable openings, and the device is set upright in the vessel with the small end just out of the liquid. Should the milk tend to boil violently this action commences at the bottom, and the liquid is forced up the tube, then falls upon the surface again, so that the boiling action will continue in this way and the milk has no tendency to leave the vessel.

Why People Marry.
In a discussion on marriage, in the opinion held by one anxious to enter into matrimony, the principal reason why people marry is the laudable desire to preserve the human family, which otherwise might become extinct. Is this true? People marry because "it is not good for man (and also woman) to be alone," and not for the reason adduced. Buddha said that there are four kinds of beings who fear when there is no danger: Worms, that fear to eat too much, lest they should exhaust the earth; the bluejay, that hatches its eggs with its feet upward, that if the sky should fall it might be ready to support it; the curfew, that threatens with all gentleness, lest it should shake the earth, and the man who seeks a wife, lest his race should become extinct.

United States National Parks.
There are 17 national parks, viz., the Hot Springs reservation, the Yellowstone national park, the Casa Grande, the Sequoia, the Yosemite, the General Grant, the Mount Rainier, the Crater Lake, the Wind Cave, the Plate, the Sullys Hill, the Mesa Verde, the Glacier, the Rocky Mountain, the Hawaii, the Lassen and the Mount McKinley. Most of these are located in the Rocky mountain range, with one in Hawaii, one in Arkansas, one, Casa Grande, in Arizona, and Mount McKinley in Alaska. The four largest are Yellowstone park, 3,348 square miles; Mount McKinley park, 2,200 square miles; Glacier park, 1,534 square miles; Rocky Mountain park, 396 square miles. The total area of the parks above named is 9,773 square miles.

Cultivate Self-Mastery.
Obedience to known laws makes possible new products. The law of supply and demand shows the market and fixes the price. The life's best self attuned to the world's notes of progress responds with truth. And this grows. Its development reacts upon the whole nature and the result is a better man. And in proportion to growth and fitness does opportunity open the way to lasting success. When the gates are once opened toward the end of the rainbow there is no telling to what honor you may hasten. The truth within you becomes the only limit to your power and self-mastery. And self-mastery means guaranteed success.

Edible Precious Stone.
There is only one edible precious stone—salt. And this is the most precious mineral on the entire earth. If we were obliged to choose between it and all the others, we should throw back into the darkness of inmost earth the diamond and all varieties of the corundum, retaining only the salt. Without salt there is no life. Salt is the bloom on the cheeks of fair women, and the strength in the muscles of men. Without salt there is no love; no struggle. Salt is as indispensable as the sun rays. If salt were to disappear from the earth, mankind would die of salt hunger.—Exchange.
